SRI LANKA
(GPU)

Formed in 1950, the National Photographic Art Society (NPAS) serves the photographic community in Sri Lanka in an extraordinary manner. A brainchild of the Late Mr. Wilson Hegoda, the Society initially catered for the Sinhala speaking photographer community, and later initiated photography classes not only to its members, but also to the students from schools across the country, free; as a community project and then leading on to a recognized Diploma.

The NPAS is affiliated to the Fédération Internationale de l'Art Photographique (FIAP); recognized as the world body for photography and the NPAS acts as its authorized representative, besides also being affiliated as a member of the Photographic Society of America (PSA), and, qualifies members in the award of Associateships and Fellowships.

The society, while being recognized as a non-profitable entity by the Government, is a registered body as a Limited Liability company and is administered by a board of directors and is presently actively involved in the conduct of educational and community related programs such as regular classes, workshops, seminars and excursions. The Annual International Exhibition is a highlight of the society and attracts photographic creations from all over the world, in addition to the hundreds of characteristic photographic creations from the Sri Lankan photographers.

MESSAGE FROM THE CHIEF GUEST

Pioneer of Photographic Education in Sri Lanka The National Photographic Art Society of Sri Lanka

A country need not make a special effort to produce someone capable of operating a camera and taking a photograph. What is required is simply bringing technology within reach and providing the necessary facilities for its use. However, producing a true photographer is the fruitful outcome of a structured educational process.

In a society considered developed, it is a hallmark that every individual is literate in language. However, the ability of everyone to take photographs is not a defining quality of a developed society nor a valuable social ideal to be pursued. Photography, therefore, becomes a simple and accessible daily activity integrated into domestic life. It is important to recognize that photography as an art form is embedded across every field of study.

Organized photographic activities must be based, as mentioned earlier, on theoretical and practical studies, evaluations, and accepted methods of practice. Consequently, it becomes necessary to uphold internationally recognized curricula and standards in photographic education.

The institution that has taken on this national responsibility with due professionalism in Sri Lanka is the National Photographic Art Society of Sri Lanka. Founded in 1950 and continuously operating since 1961, the Society rightly deserves full recognition for its efforts in establishing photography in our country not only as a profession and an art form, but also as a medium governed by ethical and social responsibility.

During the colonial era, photography was limited to colonial rulers, their associates, and the English-speaking elite. It is through this movement that the opportunity arose for Sri Lankans to learn photography freely and in their own language.

Over the past 75 years, thousands of photographers trained by the National Photographic Art Society of Sri Lanka have gone on to serve in leading media institutions, state and private enterprises, numerous self-employment sectors, and even in foreign countries. Moreover, by achieving significant international success in the field of photographic art, the Society has played a pioneering role in bringing immense prestige to Sri Lanka.

Therefore, I believe that the National Photographic Art Society of Sri Lanka rightfully deserves to proudly and respectfully celebrate the noble mission it has steadfastly pursued over the past 75 years. With that sense of fulfillment, I extend my heartfelt wishes for renewed strength and courage as the Society steps into its next century with even greater vigor.

Dr. Harini Amarasuriya

Prime Minister of Sri Lanka

Message from the President of NPAS

It is with deep respect and heartfelt affection that I extend this message on the momentous occasion of the 75th anniversary of the National Photographic Art Society of Sri Lanka.

Established in 1950, the Society has remained steadfast in its mission to promote, preserve, and popularize the artistic and technical aspects of photography in Sri Lanka. This enduring commitment is a testament to the vision of its founder, the esteemed Wilson Hegoda, whose aspirations continue to guide our journey forward.

Over its noble journey of 75 years, our Society has evolved into a distinguished institution, nurturing a generation of talented amateur and professional photographers.

At present, the Society continues its uninterrupted mission through a structured operational mechanism comprising a nine-member Board of Directors and numerous subcommittees, including the Education Committee. In 2023, recognizing the Society's exceptional and valuable services to the community, the Photographic Society of America (PSA) awarded us the PSA Service Award.

The most notable achievement in our Society's recent history is the incorporation of the National Photographic Art Society of Sri Lanka through the Incorporation Bill

(593/2025), presented to Parliament as a Private Member's Bill by the Honorable Varuna Liyanage, Member of Parliament for the Ratnapura District, on June 6, 2025. This will provide a stronger foundation for our mission to move forward with renewed vigor.

Today, thousands of members who began their photographic journeys with our Society are contributing significantly, both locally and internationally, across creative sectors including media, education, business, and the public service. Many have brought honour to the nation by winning awards on international platforms. This stands as a high testament to our long-standing mission.

I extend my heartfelt gratitude to all members, resource persons, patrons, supporters, and well-wishers who have worked hand-in-hand with us from the past to the present, offering assistance and blessings in numerous ways. It brings me sincere joy to state that the success of our 75-year journey is the result of our collective commitment and selfless efforts.

On behalf of the 75th Anniversary Organizing Committee and the Board of Directors, I warmly extend my best wishes to all members of our Society as we commemorate this historic occasion. I fervently wish that the National Photographic Art Society of Sri Lanka will continue to carry this noble social mission forward with new energy, courage, and strength for generations to come!
